

Game Tokens

YoPlace.org

The game tokens are put in a bag and one by one pulled out by game players. The letters drawn are called out by the player or the teacher so that everyone who may have that letter on their game sheet can check it off.

Making the game tokens: Cut out the full area of tokens shown below and permanently adhere them to a piece of chip board or cardboard. Then cut them out individually and place them in a bag. The best method for cutting them out is with a Exacto blade and steel straight edge. Another way one can make game tokens is to take some old “poker” chips and use a permanent marker to write the letters on one side. Notice that you should not only should have the full alphabet in capitol letters but also have an exclamation mark and two tokens that say Yo! Lastly, I like to add an extra “O” so that more players win.
